AMERICAN AND FOREIGN PATENTS.

H. H. EDDY, Solicitor of PATENTS (Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837.)
No. 75 STATE, OPPOSITE KILBY ST.
BOSTON.

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries—Galleys, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions, and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by any other agency in the country. The testimonials below give proof that none is MORE successful at the PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.

His extensive practice of the subscriber during twenty years past has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer
superior facilities for obtaining patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

A Tale of Horror.

A story so strange as hardly to be believed has for some days been whispered among our citizens, and has at length taken a form so definite that we cannot longer hesitate in giving it to our readers. For the sake of humanity we hope that some explanation may yet be given of facts which seem so atrocious. In this hope we suppress all names, and omit also circumstances which deepen the criminality of the act, but which are not yet confirmed by strict legal evidence.

Some ten years ago, there appeared in a family of this city a child about five years of age. Her parentage was unknown, or hinted only in side whispers. She was treated as a child of the family, was admitted to our public schools as a white child, was for some time a member of Trinity Church Sunday School with other children of the same family. Hundreds of children now growing up to maturity in our midst have been her associates in play and in study.

At the death of the lady who had brought her into the world, the child was committed to a daughter of the family, and by her put out to service, at first in this city and afterwards in Providence. In the latter city about a year ago, appeared two persons who claimed to represent the girl's mother, a slave in New Orleans, and carried her thither, much against her own wishes, as is represented by those who had charge of her. In New Orleans it is supposed that she lived for awhile as a domestic in the family of the daughter of that lady, who had been her patroness here. She had now become a young woman, fifteen years of age, a white girl, no one who had known her ever suspected the mixture of negro blood so attractive that she was worth a thousand dollars for purposes such that we cannot gully our sheet by a plain expression of them. The next thing we hear of her, is the following letter from herself.

NEW ORLEANS CITY, Oct. 9, 1889.

Mrs. — I now take my pen in hand to write you these few lines, to let you know what Mr. — and Mrs. — are. You know them. Last winter my mother came for me; I was in Providence, and Mrs. — said that my mother might sell me if I came here. On the ninth of September, — to carry me to the Negro trader's yard, to be sold to the highest bidder; but the officers took me and looked me up in jail, but the officers took pity on me, and put me in there for safe keeping, because if they had carried me to the trader's yard my mother would not see me again, for Mrs. — was all the time telling me that my mother would sell me. But now Mrs. — has turned around and done such a mean thing, everybody here thinks a very little of the family. I mean the —, for they are not any more respected now than a common working man. They want one thousand dollars for me. I never had the thought that Mr. — would do the like of that. The officers think that it is a very mean thing indeed. I must put my letter to a close. I hope you and all your family are well. I am not very well; I have a very bad cold from being in jail. Mr. —, please write me a letter as soon as you can, and when I get a letter from you I will write you more. If you see —, tell him all about it from —. When I was at the North they called me —. When I wanted to come back, Mr. — said that they had dressed me up so that I would not know my work. When there I had about four dollars worth; now I never go out but I have sixty dollars on my back.

DRINK OF SEA BIRDS.—The question is often asked, where do sea birds obtain fresh water to slake their thirst, but we have never seen it satisfactorily answered till a few days ago. An old skipper with whom we were conversing on the subject, said that he had frequently seen these birds at sea, far from any land that could furnish them water, hovering around and under a storm cloud, uttering like ducks on a hot day at a pond, and drinking in the drops of rain as they fell. They will smell a rain squall a hundred miles or even further off, and send for it with inconceivable keenness. How long sea birds can live without water is merely a matter of conjecture, but probably their powers of enduring thirst are increased by habit, and possibly they go without it for many days if not for several weeks.

BRITISH ON A CADDLE.

A wicked one lies buried here,
Who died in a decline;
He never rose in rank, I fear,
Though he was born to shine.
He once was fat, but then, indeed,
Grew thin as any greiver;
He died, the doctors all agreed,
Of a most burning fever.
If'er you said, "Go out, I pray,"
He much ill nature shew'd,
On such occasion he would say,
"V'y, if I do I'm blazed."

In this his friends do all agree,
Although you think him joking,
When going out, he said that he
Was very fond of smoking.

Since all religion he despised,
Let these few words suffice—
Before he ever was baptised,
They dipp'd him once or twice.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Marine Affairs.

The southeaster of which we had the promise, yesterday morning did not come; or rather the light air which set in from that direction to a sufficient extent to entice the wind-bound fleet out of the harbor, resolved itself into a veritable southwester, gradually increasing in force, until at 2 p. m. it blew what the sailors would term a "close-reef breeze," and as much as they can carry to it that.

The effect of this was to drive all the vessels of the fleet which sailed from here, in the morning, back to this harbor or into West Bay, with additional vessels not before reported, till they present, in the inner harbor, very much the appearance of a bridge of boats, while the outer harbor exhibits rather more than its usual number of vessels in a westerly blow.

The almost total absence of easterly winds for the past three or four weeks, has been a subject of remark in maritime circles here, and has caused a more than usual detention of vessels. We have had a succession of blows from the northwest, west and southwest, for the whole of the time above mentioned, interrupted with occasional calms. Some of the vessels now in port have been detained for several days. Among these are the schooner Victor, which came in on Saturday last—the Oliver Spelman and Charles Lovering, which came in Sunday.

Since that time the fleet has been gradually enlarging, till at this writing there are some seventy sail of vessels in the harbor, most of which have made several abortive attempts to proceed.

There is but little activity among the vessels belonging in port. The barque Antelope, which returned from a whaling voyage last spring, is lying dismasted at Commercial Wharf. The barque J. A. Hazard is taking in a cargo of lumber for some port in South America, and is loading again for Cuba. The brig Beronda and John Hathaway are yet lying idle, but with it is said, sail for Cuba about the middle of the present month. The schooner Pocahontas is loading for the same market, and the Perry Fern has just come off the marine railway where she has been undergoing repairs for the same purpose.

The new vessel on the stocks at the Messrs. Cottrell's yard is rapidly approaching completion, as is also another at the yard of the Messrs. Crandall. They will each be about 200 tons register, and will, we understand, be rigged as hermaphrodite brigs.

Steamer Metropolis was detained in New York Thursday night by an accident to her machinery; consequently there was no boat from there yesterday morning, and none from here last night.

The following pathetic lines, which we clip from the New York Traveller are from the gifted pen of Maj. G. W. Patten, U. S. A., a native of this place. The remains of his deceased father are deposited in the yard of the Presbyterian Church, in this city.

Full many a tide of ebb and flood,
Marked by the sounding wave,
Has told the hours since last I stood
Forth by the sounding wave,
A little green, above the spot
I came so far to see,
Is all that whispers of what
Was once so dear to me.

Above thy bed in garish day
I do not come to look,
But when, at even, the sunset ray
Gildeth thy fringes green,
Close by the porch where thou dost lie,
Musing in silence there,
I have to think that thou art nigh,
And thou wilt hear my prayer.

And as the shades of gathering night
Come down and dim my gaze,
Like worldly clouds that veil from sight
Faint fairy smiles to raise,
Thy then, as slowly disappears
Thy grave without a stone,
Reflecting thro' the mist of years,
I feel too much alone.

The sunny Isle where I was born,
The bird that broke my dreams at noon,
The homestead—turned around:
A thousand thoughts—the smile, the tear,
The voice of music deep—
Love's voice—my father sleeping here,
—Forgive me if I weep.

"ZAT IS MY TRUNK."—In the days of coaching over the Providence turnpike, before railroad cars in use, and baggage crates existed, and when travelers had to keep a sharp look out for their luggage, some forty or fifty passengers had just stepped on board the old "Ben. Franklin," and got under way on Narragansett Bay. A gentleman who had occasion to get some of his wardrobe, had just hauled out from an immense pile of baggage stowed amidships, a new black leather trunk of portly dimensions, studded with brass nails, when a little withered Frenchman, of a mottled complexion, and fashionably dressed, darted from the crowd, and interposing between our friend and his property, exclaimed, vociferously, but positively.

"I beg your pardon, s'vz—mais pardon—moi—you have got so wrong cochin by zo oville—zat is my trunk!"
"Not so, monsieur—I hope I know my own traps."

"Hesiz trouville—hold on—dans an instant, I will prove my prupis—ann! you see dis key, eh? Applying it to the lock, he threw up the lid, and then struck a triumphant attitude. "My key unlock you trunk, eh? tell me zat."

"Stand out of the way! it's my trunk, I tell you."

"Hold on you leetle minute! zose your sharts, eh?"

"To be sure, they are."

"Zose your drawers, eh?"

"Certainly."

"Vait a moment: I will prove my prupis, s'vz, and the little Frenchman rummaging beneath a pile of shirts, and socks produced a bottle, and said deliberately, with a hideous grin:

"Zat—your—but-telle of Dom frices 1sh (lick) ointment, s'vz—eh? Ave you got your leetle 1sh? Zis you Remede for Ze leprois (leprosy), eh? I know it was my trunk."

It is needless to remark that our friend immediately "opened a wide gap" between himself and the interesting victim of two of the most unpopular disorders known to suffering humanity.

Diamond Fire.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 3.—The Pembroke Cotton Mills at Suncook Village, were burned this morning. The fire originated in the picker room, about half-past 9 o'clock, extending to the main buildings, which were rapidly consumed. The town bridge, across the Suncook river, near the Mills was also destroyed. There were two mills, one brick and one wooden.

A counting-room, picker-room, and one dwelling, on the opposite side of the river, were also burnt. All belonged to the company.

The property was insured for from $70,000 to $90,000, principally in Massachusetts and Rhode Island offices.

The loss is estimated at $130,000. The principal owners are, Weld & Minot, Thomas Howe, W. Robertson, and M. Pope, all of Boston.

The bridge was valued at about $700, and was uninsured. The wind blew very hard from the northwest, and the fire caught several times in a furniture factory across the river, but was promptly extinguished, without much damage.

About two hundred and fifty operatives are thrown out of employment.

Freight Train Smashed Up.

ALBANY, Nov. 3.—Between 11 and 12 o'clock last night, a freight train consisting of forty-one cars ran off the track at the entrance to the city on the heavy down grade, and on reaching the corner of Van Woert street, the locomotive, one of the largest on the road, was overturned, and a general smash-up followed. Eight of the freight cars were shattered to atoms, and their contents scattered about in all directions. The remainder of the train was more or less injured by the concussion, the locomotive being very badly damaged. No lives were lost nor any one injured.

The Wisconsin Railroad Accident.

WATERLOO, Wis., Nov. 2.—A coroner's inquest was held this afternoon upon the bodies of those killed by the railroad accident yesterday, and a verdict, that the accident was unavoidable, and not the fault of any person in charge of the train, was rendered.

CHUNKY JOE.—In the immediate vicinity of the name of Communism, or, formerly known as Helltown. In this village a public house was kept by Mr. E. K., who had in his employ a jack of all trades named Joe Barker, better known as Chunky Joe, in allusion to his general appearance. Joe was fond of good liquor, or, indeed liquor of any kind; and being generally short of funds and credit, too, was in the habit of seizing on all remnants of liquor left by practitioners at the bar.

Thus matters progressed for some ten years, keeping Joe pretty well soaked. When Mr. K., having occasion to make a mixture for curing a diseased hoof, had need of some nitric acid, or aquafortis, that article being one of the ingredients of the lotion.

Taking a common bar tumbler, and pouring a sufficient quantity of acid into it, he went out, leaving the tumbler on the counter, and a traveler the sole occupant of the bar-room. He had no sooner passed the door than in came Chunky Joe, and seeing, as he thought, a tumbler, as usual, with some liquor too good to be wasted, immediately looked through the bottom. "Was his usual custom," and quickly threw himself outside of said liquor. He then went to his wood-chopping, smacking his lips at the unusual strength of the spirits. Shortly after Mr. K. coming in, picked up the tumbler to go on with his medicinal preparation, but was very much surprised on finding it empty. Inquiring of the traveler, he was informed that a short, chunky man (describing Joe) drank it. With an exclamation of surprise, and consternation depicted on his countenance, he rushed out of the room in search of Joe, expecting to find his dead body not many yards off. He passed around the house, and in the back yard found Joe doing extra execution upon the backlogs, working as he generally did when he had on an extra amount of steam. After getting over his astonishment, the following colloquy ensued:

Mr. K.—"Joe, did you drink that stuff on the counter?"

Joe.—"Why—yans—I thought it hadn't ought to be wasted, you know. All right, I s'pose."

Mr. K.—"I don't know. How did you like it? How did you feel after it?"

Joe.—"Feel? I feel first-rate—lively as a cricket."

Mr. K.—"Well, Joe, but haven't you noticed anything out of the way—nothing wrong about you?"

Joe.—"Anything wrong? Well, no, not much—first-rate liquor—takes good hold—goes further than common. There's only one thing queer about it which I can't exactly get the hang of, (here he drew his shirt-sleeve under his nose). Whenever I take my mouth I burn a hole in my shirt!"

Mr. K., always after this spoke of the circumstance in illustration of the preservative qualities of his liquors, which would give a man such a stomach that even a dram of nitric acid would not face it.

After Joe found out what he had been drinking, he always kept a cent in his pocket, which he would drop into his liquor before he drank, to test its strength. The last time the cent was seen it was pretty well used up. It was about the thickness of half-dime, but still showed the outline of liberty's head, which was, with Joe, emblematic of the liberty of drinking when he pleased. He is still alive.

Kidnapping at Columbus.

A mulatto man was seized at the railroad depot yesterday morning, forced on board the 8:40 train for Cincinnati, and carried off. The seizure was made by Deputy-Marshal Jacob Lowe, who also holds the office of Deputy Sheriff of Franklin County, and Robert Mitchell, Constable of this city, and a number of helpers. No warrant or authority of any kind was shown. They told the bystanders he had been robbing somebody. Although the man was seized by as many as could find a place to take hold, being a powerful man, he threw them off, and it was only after a contest that lasted, we are credibly informed, half or three-quarters of an hour, that they succeeded in subduing him so as to force him into the cars, during the struggle Deputy Lowe taking every available chance to hit him on the head with a heavy cane.

A colored man named Henry Alfred relates the following circumstances: He and Rice lived at Mount Gilead. A man, calling himself D. C. Watson, who had been here several days, engaged Rice and himself to come to Columbus to be employed in a refreshment saloon that he was going to set up. They started together on Thursday for Columbus. The colored men stayed over night at Delaware, where Rice had relations, but Watson came on to Columbus, and met them with the gang when they arrived in the morning. Alfred was not seized, but was roughly handled to prevent his interference. People at Xenia where the train was due about 12 o'clock, were informed of the matter by telegraph, and we are advised that officers got on the cars there with a writ of habeas corpus, but were carried off.

Alfred states that Rice had lived in the neighborhood of Mt. Gilead near eight years, and had a wife and one child there. Incidents like this among us leave no room for indignation or horror at John Brown's invasion. If arms can be put into this man's hands to help his way to freedom by whatever killing is necessary, there is not a man or woman in the State that will not justify both the man that armed him and the man that slew those that enslaved him. See what a narrow line divides us all, Republicans and Democrats, from Old John Brown.—Columbus Journal, 29th.

CALIFORNIA NEWS.—By the overland mail we have interesting intelligence from California. A shock of an earthquake occurred at San Francisco Oct. 5, which excited very general alarm. It was preceded by a low subterranean muttering, resembling the noise of a heavily laden cart, increasing in loudness until the shock came. It differed from the usual vibrations of this kind, in being rather a jerk or jolt than an oscillation. Thousands of people rushed out into the streets, in every variety of impromptu attitude. The City Hall was much shaken. The various county offices were vacated instantly, and a general stampede took place down the stairs. The Twelfth District Court was in session, and jury, officers, and spectators—all but the Judge—took summary flight from their seats, and scampered out of the Court Room. Buildings situated upon made ground, or upon hills, oscillated the most. Several buildings had their walls cracked, and the plastering was showered down in rooms in many instances. A good many motions, and in some instances falling ensued.

Dr. Tyler, a free love spiritualist, sailed from San Francisco on the 7th ult., with about twenty disciples, for San Salvador, in Central America, where the Doctor has purchased a tract of 50,000 acres of land for the purpose of establishing a free love settlement. To obtain the necessary funds for the enterprise, one of the infatuated individuals sacrificed a splendid estate in Alameda county. He has put all his property, about $40,000 into the crazy scheme.

The first brick house ever constructed in California has been torn down. It was located in San Francisco. The most terrific conflagrations have raged around and over his head, but always left it unscathed. The remorseless hand of improvement has at length fastened upon it, and it has ceased to be.

PRAYERS IN BEHALF OF JOHN BROWN.—Last evening a large and respectable audience, of persons sympathizing with John Brown, met at Shiloh Presbyterian Church for the purpose of prayer and exhortation in reference to Slavery, and more particularly to pray for the men in prison with John Brown in Virginia. The exercises were conducted by the Rev. Henry Highland Garnet. The Rev. Mr. Constantine read a portion of Scripture, and offered the opening prayer. Addresses were made by the Rev. Mr. Wilson of the Seventh Avenue Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Mr. Garnet of Shiloh Presbyterian Church. Prayers were offered by the Revs. Messrs. Prime, Austin, and others.

A preliminary prayer-meeting was held at the residence of Mr. Garnet, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, which was attended chiefly by ladies. Much enthusiasm and earnestness was apparent, and the cause of John Brown was warmly entertained.—N. Y. Tribune.

A WORD TO INVALIDS.

All who have any serious or troublesome disease will very naturally seek advice somewhere, and this leads me to say a few words on the choice of a physician. And first, remember, remember, remember these things. If you have an intelligent physician in your vicinity apply to him immediately, and follow his directions explicitly, and for a sufficient length of time, and he will probably cure you; if not, then apply to one who ranks you as a patient, as a patient, as a patient in general practice, in any branch of diseases, in

It is a quack which applies to him immediately, and to him in all his directions explicitly, and for a sufficient length of time, and he will probably cure you; if not, then apply to one who understands your disease a specialty, for a physician in general practice, unless he has his own cure, cannot treat a case, or class of diseases, and successfully as one of the same ability when he treats any other specialty, and devotes his whole attention to them. Educated physicians hitherto have stood aloof from making private diseases a specialty, and hence they have been monopolized by quacks.—The fear of losing either in society, or of being classed among charlatans by the profession,
